METHODOLOGY FOR ALLOCATION OF QUANTITY IN YANKEE BIDDING

Allocation is carried out by the e-Sale software on following basis:

- a) First preference is given to highest bid price
- b) If two or more parties bid the same price then preference for allocation is given to party that placed the bid for a higher quantity.
- c) In case two or more parties bid the same price and quantity, then preference is given to the party that placed the bid earlier.

The above is illustrated below for tonnage wise bidding.

Assume that the total quantity available is 800 mt. and customers bid for certain quantity (in MT) at a certain price as illustrated in following table (minimum bid quantity is assumed as 200 MT= 1 UNIT):

Bidder	Bid Time (Hr.: Min.)	Bid Quantity in Units (200MT= 1UNIT)	Bid Price (Rs/Unit)	Allocated Qty. In Units (200MT = 1 UNIT)
B	9.40		1	15000 1
F	9.39		2	14800 2
D	9.36		1	14800 0
A	9.32		1	14800 1
E	9.34		1	14800 0
C	9.30		2	14750 0

Explanation for the Allocation of Quantity

1. Bidder B is the highest bidder @ Rs.15000/MT, hence the system allocates his bided quantity i.e., 200 mt = 1 Unit.
2. There are 4 bidders @ Rs.14800/Mt.
 - I. Since bidder F's bid was for 400 MT (2 Unit) (Highest at Rs.14800/MT) the system allocates his bid quantity in full.
 - II. Since bidder A placed his bid earlier than bidder D & bidder E i.e. 9.32 Hrs hence the software gives first preference to Bidder A
 - III. and allocates bidder A the available quantity (i.e. 200 MT = 1 Unit) first.
3. Since, all the quantity is exhausted at higher bid price than Rs.14750/MT, therefore no quantity is allocated to Bidder C. If Bidder C wants to win any quantity then he has to place bid in terms of higher price and/or greater quantity.
